

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

To whom it may concern:

As a subscriber to an independent ISP for my DSL service, I am disturbed by what I've read about the FCC NPRM. I greatly value the services that my ISP provides to me at a very reasonable rate and would not look forward to the possibility of losing that service. I have been a subscriber to Iglou dial-up for many years now and recently signed up for their DSL service and the options, service, and pricing are top notch. I have no desire whatsoever to switch to a large provider.

I ask you to please continue to allow my independent provider to operate competitively and fairly with the larger services.

Sincerely,

Michael Ewing
